Michelle Effatt

At the center of the small community of Cradock there is our school and the Civic League. We have begun to partner as a unit to beautify Cradock and restore community pride. With each piece of trash that we pick up and dispose of, our goal is to uplift the people around us. My students are engaging in a two-fold transformation, one that involves their community and the other connected to their mind set. As they do better, they see better and therefore they want better. The materials that we have requested will allow us to service the homes in the community in need of some TLC. A little paint and mulch makes everything appear so much better, especially around the holiday season. For those individuals like the elderly who exist on a limited income, the service that our students provide is heaven sent. These materials in allowing for the clean-up of yards, store fronts, and community meeting places, help to bring people back to the Cradock community where their dollars assist in revitalization. Our students are encouraged to become stewards and keepers of the community. In helping to clean up their neighborhood they become stakeholders in the environment and their future.
